Both topics are very important in today’s economic environment, they were welcomed by the members of the conference with great interest and triggered a debate.

It was a great pleasure that the colleagues from the University of Economics in Prague, with which the FEFM has a close relationship on the basis of the Erasmus programme, participated in all of the three conferences. A representative of the Czech commercial bank was also attending the conference.

We are also very pleased to note that WOE 2013 expanded its geography and the colleagues from Croatia joined it for the first time. In addition, new members from the Polish and Spanish universities attended the WOE 2013.
However, the most important are regular participants who share their findings in MRU conferences every year, such as Latvian, Polish, Slovak, Bulgarian, Czech, Ukraine, Italian, Spanish, Lithuanian and other university representatives.

It is also important to note that not only doctoral, but also master degree students increasingly turn to conference events. This is a good opportunity for them to present to a wider audience the results of their research and to listen to advice on possible improvements.

After the plenary session, the conference continued in two aggregated sessions:
